Important Information for Customers in Rhode Island

Retail electric supply competition was phased in beginning on July 1, 1997. Since that time, the services by The Narragansett Electric Company d/b/a Rhode Island Energy have been separated into two parts— delivery and supply. This means you and all other Rhode Island consumers have the option to purchase electricity supply from a non-regulated power producer (also known as a Competitive Supplier). If you choose a Competitive Supplier, Rhode Island Energy will continue to deliver the electricity to your business, maintain lines, read your meter, provide customer and billing services and respond to emergencies.

To expand the range of competitive options available to electricity consumers in Rhode Island, the Public Utilities Commission has approved the release of non-residential information on a Customer Information List. Effective December 2005, Rhode Island Energy made this Customer Information List available to licensed Competitive Suppliers. Competitive Suppliers who have signed a confidentiality agreement may use the information included on the Customer Information List for the marketing of energy-related products and services only.

Information to be included on the Customer Information List

The Customer Information List compiled by Rhode Island Energy includes the name on your electric account (corporate name), your mailing and service addresses, and energy information including rate class, 12 months historical usage information (kWh, kW, and kVa if applicable), meter read cycle and voltage indicator. Your company will appear on the Customer Information List unless you notify Rhode Island Energy that you do not want this information included (see over).

The Narragansett Electric Company has updated the Customer Information List on a quarterly basis since March 2006.

Benefits of having your information included on the Customer Information List

Rhode Island Energy is committed to taking all appropriate steps to bring the benefits of the competitive electric industry to consumers. By having your account information included on the Customer Information List, you are improving the ability of Competitive Suppliers to offer you electricity-related products and services. These products and services may provide savings, as well as other benefits that may be of interest.

If you do not want your account information included on the Customer Information List

Certain consumers may not want their account information included on the Customer Information List. If you do not want your information included on the Customer Information List, contact Rhode Island Energy at the telephone number or address below. Rhode Island Energy will remove your information from all subsequent Customer Information Lists. If you decide at a later date that you want your account information included on the Customer Information List, you can contact Rhode Island Energy using the number, web site or address below.

Please include your name, account number, address and phone number in all correspondence.
